Course description
	Marketing is not just selling or advertising. Rather, it is the business function that deals with customers' needs and wants. Marketing management help companies to understand customer preferences, link that knowledge to designing appropriate products and services for selected customers, and determine appropriate methods to communicate, to capture, and to deliver value. The marketing management process is important at all levels of the organization, regardless of the title applied to the activity. This course covers principles of market-driven managerial decision making that determine competitiveness in dynamic consumer and organizational markets. Particular areas of emphasis include industry analyses, dynamics of competition, market segmentation, target marketing, channels of distribution, product and pricing decisions, and finally integrated communication.
Course objectives:	Planning alternative marketing strategies is crucial to successfully managing a business enterprise. Students have the opportunity to learn marketing management techniques currently being used in the business environment which enables students to make better marketing management decisions. In-depth analytical skills are developed through case analyses, class discussions, and applied projects.
